HELLO THERE!

We are Jd and Katie Adams. Thank you for taking the time to learn more about our family. Your unconditional love for your child is evident in your desire to give this baby the best possible life. We are honored that you are considering us and want you to know that we admire your courage and bravery as you seek to make the most loving choice for your child's future.
OUR STORY

Four years ago, Jd and I began dating. A few months into our relationship, I was diagnosed with PCOS and told by multiple doctors that I would have difficulty getting pregnant. This began many conversations about our future if we stayed together and married. We talked about our options, including adoption. Ultimately, we decided not to prevent anything from happening and let nature take its course. Fast forward two years; we built a house together, got married, and became more serious about trying to have a baby. We started seeing a specialist at the beginning of 2021. We did three IUIs which each failed and then tried IVF. Our hopes were high; everything looked good. It was a painful disappointment when neither transfer was successful. Through all of this, we continued to talk about adoption. So here we are today, beginning our adoption journey.
Months into our relationship, we began seeing multiple doctors and specialists. We started planning to get married. We eventually decided not to try again, as we thought it was time to let nature take its course. We got married, and things started looking up. We began trying again, which each failed cycle looked good. It was our first time that we had been successful in trying to conceive. So here we are, a family.

JD LOVES KATIE

Katie's my best friend and the love of my life. She cares so much and has a huge heart for people. Her dream has always been to be a mom because she loves kids. She's going to be an amazing mom and I'm so happy to be on this journey with her!
OUR HOME AND COMMUNITY

We live in a beautiful 3 bed, 2 bath home that we built, side by side, from the ground up. Our neighborhood has two parks, one is within walking distance from us. We have amazing neighbors and get together for game nights and BBQs quite often.
